RIOT!

Welling rampage shows the ugly face of 'anti-racism'

SAVAGES — that's the only way to describe the alien hate-mob who rampaged through Welling on Government orders

LAST month saw one of Britain's worst race riots — and senior police officers must take a large share of the blame. Acting under orders from the Tory Government, Metropolitan Police Commissioner Paul Condon allowed a thousand-strong alien mob to bring disorder and terror to the white community of Welling, Kent.

The riot began with a demonstration outside the British National Party bookshop by an anti-white hate-group calling itself the 'Black Panthers'.

ATTACK

It was supposedly in protest at the stabbing of a black youth a few miles away, but the authorities real intention was clearly that the mob should attack the bookshop, and thus persuade the local council to order its closure to 'keep the peace'.

At first, the plan appeared to be succeeding. A howling mob, mostly alien, and openly brandishing iron bars and other offensive weapons, was led by the police to the BNP bookshop.

The senior police officers present were clearly delighted when the hate-crazed mob began demolishing local people's garden walls in order to hurl bricks and rocks at the shop.

But the attack quickly got out of hand, as the primitive blood-lust of the mob took over. Having failed to cause significant damage to the Bookshop, the rioters rampaged through the town of Welling, attacking anyone who was white, and forcing terrified local residents to take cover in a supermarket which was then locked up by the manager to prevent the mob from entering. Property was destroyed and cars overturned by the thugs, who had come from areas such as Brixton.

HORRIFYING

The horrifying pictures broadcast on television showed an innocent white bystander set upon by the rioting savages.

One of the few compensations for locals was that a good many white communists who had come to join in the riot were themselves attacked by the blacks!

ALIEN MOB

The reaction of local white residents was anger, not at the BNP as intended, but at the local authorities and the police for allowing the alien mob to come anywhere near Welling.

The stupid and irresponsible plan by the Establishment politicians and their senior police stooges had backfired in a big way. The BNP bookshop was flooded with callers offering their support, and deploring the action of the authorities for inciting the riot.

LOCAL ELECTION BOOST FOR B.N.P.

BRITISH National Party candidates in local council elections last month picked up some excellent scores, with the bonus of massive local publicity in most cases. The best result (4.5 per cent) was obtained by Watford's Peter Illing (right). The Stoke unit also polled over 4 per cent, and particularly pleasing was the 3 per cent vote achieved by the BNP in Cardiff. Full details of the campaigns are given inside.

ENCOURAGING ELECTION RESULTS

Last month's local election results obtained by British National Party candidates are an immensely encouraging sign that nationalism in Britain is continuing to show the 'green shoots of recovery' following the doldrums of the 1980s.

The results, which average around 3.5 per cent for the BNP, are up significantly from last year's General Election average of just over one per cent. Although this is partly accounted for by the fact that the BNP tends to do better in local rather than parliamentary elections, the encouraging aspect is that the Party is making steady and strong progress.

Of course, it is nice when the BNP achieves a spectacular individual vote such as the 20 per cent won by Barry Osborne in the Millwall by-election less than a year ago. But such triumphs only occur infrequently, and although they are important morale-boosters, it is far more essential on the road to power to gain a consistent set of results which will eventually carry us to victory.

One need only to look at the experiences of parties such as the SDP or the Greens (remember them?) who won massive over-night success only to collapse into obscurity little more than a year later.

The important thing about the BNP results over the last couple of years is that our share of the vote has been rising steadily and consistently — we are not just a 'flash in the pan'. The Party now has a firm base of support which will in turn begin to encourage the mass of the electorate whom we need to win over if we are to eventually achieve power.

The BNP is now coming close to that overall five per cent benchmark by which a political party can regard itself as a serious contender in the field of power politics. The success of France's Front National and Germany's Republikaner began when they achieved the five per cent 'breakthrough' in local elections.

Apart from the good number of votes received, the other main pay-off from our participation in the elections was of course the publicity generated locally, and in some cases nationally.

In many areas up and down the country, the Party made front page headlines as a result of election meetings, demonstrations and leafleting. This has given the BNP a much higher profile and an image of strength, which in turn has attracted more public support.

For this, we must to a large extent thank the bizarre antics of 'ANAL' and the various other communist groups who have jumped onto the 'anti-racist' bandwagon. In many cases, BNP activities which otherwise would have passed off almost unnoticed by the media and the public, have been catapulted onto the front pages of the press by actions of the reactionary buffoons and thugs acting under the 'anti-racist' umbrella. Self-publicity is of course the main motive of the communists' activities, but the BNP gains the benefit of additional publicity and public support generated by their antics.

The message of the election, then, is: Keep up the good work, and don't allow these good results to breed complacency. Now that this campaign is over, the next one must begin immediately!

WHITES UNDER SIEGE AS RACE-WAR CONTINUES

RAMADAN MOB IN BLACKPOOL

BLACKPOOL folk are having second thoughts about their traditional hospitality to some of the visitors their famous seaside town is getting nowadays.

Among these are the moslem youths who have taken to invading the Lancashire resort at the end of their month-long fast of Ramadan.

PAKISTANI FLAGS

Last year they poured into the area flying Pakistani flags and causing mayhem in an orgy of hooliganism which outraged local people.

There were 17 arrests as 2,000 moslems descended on the town, causing havoc by driving their cars at high speed across the town and starting confrontations with local people.

As police braced themselves for a repeat performance last month, one of the moslems, Chico Khan, said: "It's a place where you can let yourself go." Khan claimed last year's trouble was caused by "racist people."

LOCAL FOLK

But local Blackpool folk tell a different story. One white teenage girl said she hoped the Moslems would not make trouble like they had last time. She added: "I think the flags are ridiculous because it is just not right. They do not have to advertise the fact that they are here."

Superintendent Dick Taylor of Blackpool Police said he would maintain close links with Islamic "community leaders" and pleaded with Blackpool people not to show the union jack, evidently for fear of "provoking" the Moslems. Needless to say, he mentioned nothing about any provocation that might be caused to Blackpool people by banner-waving Moslems.

B.N.P. SUPPORT

However, some of the locals, fully supported by the British National Party, did give notice that they intended to monitor the situation. In the event, their concern was fully justified. Several Moslems were arrested for public order offences, as around 250 vehicles were driven recklessly around the streets.

One elderly lady, Mrs Sadie Rourke, spoke of the intimidation suffered by the public. "I don't think they should be running up and down here with their cars" she said.

Her feelings were shared by the rest of the besieged white community. Blackpool folk feel that things have gone quite far enough, and that it is high time that what they see as an unwanted alien intrusion should be stopped.

FAR-right extremists have threatened to be in Blackpool this weekend for the annual influx of celebrating Moslems.

Festivities started yesterday with about 1,000 Moslems — mainly from East Lancashire and Manchester — arriving in the resort in mid-afternoon.

More are expected this weekend — and the far right British National Party have threatened to be here too.

By JANE SHOTLIFF

An estimated 250 cars caused minor problems by being driven erratically on South Promenade and car parks yesterday.

Chief Inspector Michael Arnold said: "There were five or six arrests for public order and driving offences. But we had adequate police resources to contain the situation and it was a good natured affair."

South Shore Coun Mike Japp today appealed for peace in the wake of last year's trouble.

The extreme right British National Party has written to Liberal Democrat Coun Japp, who last year condemned the violence.

In their letter to him, the right-wing extremists claim they too will be monitoring the situation in the town, using video cameras.

But Coun Japp said: "I shall be watching them watching the Moslems."

THE LOCAL PRESS reported how Cllr Mike Japp, who last year was only too happy to win votes by condemning the Moslem invasion, suddenly became more alarmed by the thought of the BNP turning up than by the idea of thousands of aliens swamping his town.

No justice for Paul Carter

"THEY'RE getting away with murder."

That was the reaction of angry Walsall people following a court's rap over the knuckles sentence on Pakistani immigrant Mohammed Hussain for his part in a murderous attack on 23-year-old Paul Carter.

STABBED TO DEATH

The young white father-of-two was stabbed to death by an Asian mob last year. He and two friends had been set upon out of the blue as they walked down the street by the two-dozen-strong gang on the pretext of a row over a jacket the night before. Hussain denied murdering Paul and attempting to murder his companion Jimmy Walker who was stabbed four times.

Hussain had lied to the police, giving a false alibi. Then he had blurted out: "Nobody was with me when I stabbed him." Yet the court accepted the defence counsel's statement that this was simply an "unfortunate turn of phrase."

MURDER victim Paul Carter was brutally slaughtered by an Asian gang last year. Needless to say, the horrific murder was totally ignored by the 'race relations' industry

The upshot was that Hussain was found not guilty of the murder of Paul Carter, but guilty only of unlawfully wounding Jimmy Walker. He received a pathetic nine-year sentence — which means that with full remission he could be back on the streets in just three years.

FLED TO PAKISTAN

Eight of Hussain's friends are due to appear in September on disorder charges. Another suspect has fled to Pakistan, and it seems unlikely that any effort will be made by the authorities in this country to get him extradited.

Faced with the likelihood that her son's killer will never be brought to justice, Paul Carter's grieving mother has called for the case to be re-opened. "I just want to know that Paul hadn't died for nothing," she said.

But her plea has been met with an official stone wall. The police have refused to re-start their enquiries.

White man's ear hacked off in race attack

A BIRMINGHAM man had his ear hacked off by a crazed West Indian while out walking in the street.

The 48-year-old white man was ambushed by an unidentified black assailant outside his home in the notorious Handsworth area.

Most whites fled Handsworth after the savage race riots of 1985, but a small number who could not afford to move out remain, living in terror of further racial violence.

The attacker called his victim a "white animal" before launching the completely unprovoked attack, lashing out with a walking stick which had a six-inch blade fixed to the end.

Det Inspector Pat Sullivan, of Handsworth Police Station, said: "The man rushed into his home and then realised what was left of his ear was pouring with blood. Most of it was sliced off in this horrifying attack. There appears to be no obvious motive but he was racially abused and called a 'white honkey'."

Police failed to find the victim's ear, which it was hoped doctors could sew back on.

The victim, who is married with children, was given emergency treatment and plastic surgery at Dudley Road Hospital.

Police said the victim had asked not to be named as he was badly shocked and feared reprisals. Detectives have launched a hunt for a dreadlocked West Indian man.

Lone white man assaulted

HALIFAX police are seeking a gang of Asian youths after a young white man was clubbed with a baseball bat outside a nightclub.

Matthew Eagland, 23, was seen arguing with some Asians, one of home struck him at least three times over the head with the bat. Mr Eagland was taken to hospital, where he received ten stitches to a head wound.

Help needed

BRITISH NATIONALIST* is campaigning to stop the epidemic of racial attacks against white people — indeed, we are the only national newspaper doing this.

In order to do this effectively, however, we need the help of BN readers in sending us local reports of racial attacks in their own areas. This is because attacks against whites are usually suppressed from the national press and tend to stay buried within the small print of local papers.

It is very important that attacks against whites are effectively monitored to counter the false assertion by the Establishment media that only blacks are the victims of 'racial attacks'.

Readers should send press-cuttings etc to the Welling P.O.Box, if possible including the date of the report and the name of the newspaper.

White girls attacked for their skin colour

By Maria Croce

A TEENAGE white girl is now a prisoner in her home after a racial knife attack by two black men.

Ruth Nicholson, 17, has moved back to her parents' house in Thornton Heath and is seeking counselling to help her recover from the trauma.

Ruth and her friend Jenni Mayhew, 16, were attacked in Heath Road, Thornton Heath, at 9pm last Monday only yards from their home in Parchmore Road.

They wanted to use a public pay phone on their way home but because it was late they did not feel safe approaching two men already in the box to ask if they could use the phone.

The girls, who did not want anyone to see them enter their home nearby, crossed the road to look for another phone.

But the men shouted racist abuse, saying the girls had avoided them because they were black.

They then followed the girls and pounced on them near the entrance to an alleyway.

Ruth said: "One of the blokes grabbed me by the hair and pushed me forward.

"His friend pushed my friend up against the wall. He was holding me by the neck, I could barely breathe. I was trying to get his hand off and lost feeling in my fingers.

"I was on the verge of passing out and he took his hand away. I said, 'Please don't hurt me'."

"I knew I had been cut because there was blood everywhere. He then hit me on the head."

Ruth Nicholson

But the man then pulled out a knife.

"He was going to slash my face but I put my arms up in time and was cut quite deeply on the top of my arms.

"I didn't feel myself being cut but I knew I had been cut somewhere because there was blood everywhere. He then hit me on the head and I went on the floor unconscious.

"He was apparently kicking me in the stomach and ribs and went to dig me in the stomach with the knife."

Ruth said her friend Jenni then grabbed the man to stop him and he slashed her above the eye with the knife. Both men then ran off.

Ruth said she came round in Mayday Hospital's casualty department with a broken rib and Jenni needed five stitches to her cut above the eye.

She said they would not have approached any men — whatever their skin colour — at that time of night in Thornton Heath and she was still puzzled as to the men's motive, despite their racist remarks.

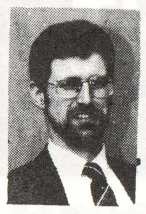
"When we walked the opposite way it was just in case they saw where we lived. I think it's disgusting to do that to a couple of girls. I keep on asking 'why?'

"I won't go out the door now unless I am with my dad. I never want to see him again, unless it's in a police line-up."

Any witnesses should contact Det Sgt Chris Bagwell at South Norwood CID on 081-653 8568.

THE ARTICLE above appeared recently in the Croydon Advertiser — the facts contained in the report are so horrifying in themselves that we feel it unnecessary to add further comment, other than to point out that such cases of attacks against whites invariably remain buried in the inside pages of the local press, and are rarely even mentioned by the national media.

Racial attacks: WHITE victims



Report by John Morse

Amid Britain's multi-racial nightmare it isn't just non-whites who are being physically attacked on racial grounds. At least as many whites as non-whites are falling victim to racial attacks.

Many cases have been brought to our attention over the last few years, including acts of random violence, torture and murder against white people — despite cover-up attempts by the powers that be.

"I HATE WHITES"

As long ago as 1989 a sadistic West Indian attacker, Joseph Archibald, was jailed for nine years for subjecting five white women to a six-hour ordeal of torture after breaking into their flat in Shepherd's Bush, West London.

SADIST Joseph Archibald subjected five white women to a vicious racial attack

He slashed them with a knife, a jagged broken bottle, and scissors; lashed them with a belt until they bled; burnt them on their legs with cigarettes; tore some of their hair out by the roots; and threatened to burn them to death.

After cutting one girl with a knife he licked the blade, saying: "I like to drink blood." He told his victims: "I hate all white people."

INDISCRIMINATE VIOLENCE

Atrocities like this have happened against a steady undercurrent of racial violence against British people.

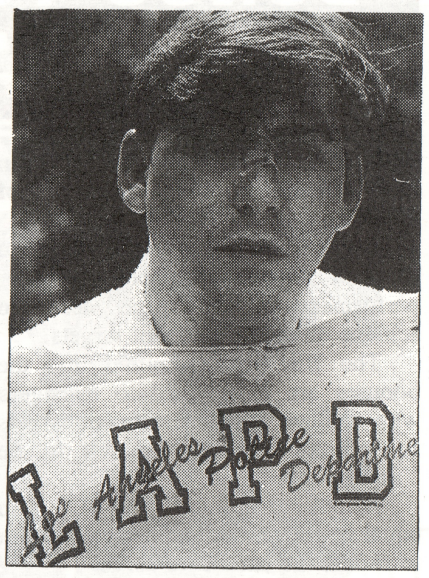
Reports have reached British Nationalist from all over the country of random attacks on whites, with victims including men, women and children, launched on the flimsiest pretexts or none at all.

In August, 1990, when Moslem militants were agitating the most loudly for Salman Rushdie's blood, it wasn't Rushdie who suffered the consequences. To this day not a hair of his head has been harmed. It was completely innocent British people like the 61-year-old woman who was dragged from her bike in Slough, Berks, and beaten by a gang of Asian youths. Her offence was that she was a shop assistant in W.H.Smith's who were accused by Moslems of selling Rushdie's book, The Satanic Verses. Therefore staff at the shop had to be told not to wear their uniforms in the street for their own safety.

More recently in May 1992, a young car worker in Coventry, David Stacey, was beaten up by an Asian gang. After being tripped to the ground and repeatedly kicked he was left with a fractured rib and other injuries.

It was thought that Mr. Stacey was attacked because he happened to be wearing by chance a Los Angeles Police Department T-Shirt.

It seems that his Asian assailants identified themselves with the black rioters who were rampaging in Los Angeles at the time. Mr. Stacey described the attack on himself as being very like the scenes from T.V. in which rioters in Los Angeles were shown dealing out savage beatings to white victims.



VICTIM David Stacey was savagely beaten during an horrific racial attack by an alien hate-gang

In other cases reported from up and down Britain ordinary British folk are time and again being racially attacked practically from out of the blue.

Last year a white woman walking her dog in Enfield, North London was treated to a torrent of racial abuse by three black youths who pushed her to the ground. She was later treated for head injuries. The story received less than two inches of column space on the inside pages of the local newspaper.

SAVAGE ATTACKS

But one part of the country where anti-white racist attacks have become so bad that the media and police alike have had to admit part of the truth is Halifax, Yorkshire, where practically all race attacks in the town are acknowledged to be by Asians upon whites. The last two years or more have seen one savage assault after another, especially in the Gibbet Street district of the town. Baseball bats and other weapons have habitually been used, and at least one sex attack against a white woman has been reported.

ATTACKS ON WHITES

Four Asians from Manchester recently went on trial at Chester Crown Court charged with abducting a white man at random, hurling him over a cliff and leaving him for dead. Mr. Thomas white, 22, was snatched whilst walking home from a club in so-called revenge for an earlier alleged fight between a Pakistani cab driver and white passengers, the court was told despite having had nothing whatever to do with this incident. Whatever the outcome of this trial, which has not been made widely known, many cases of immigrant-on-white race violence end up with raps on the knuckles for the culprits.

To take one example, after being found guilty of going on an armed "white bashing" spree with a gang of mates in Small Heath, Birmingham, at the city's Crown Court last year, two Asian brothers were allowed to walk free. The two had been identified as part of the mob, which used bottles, sticks and a hammer on two white lads. But after a plea bargain the brothers, Riaz and Imtiaz Shah, who had been charged with violent disorder and wounding, were given conditional discharges when they agreed to plead guilty to lesser public order offences.

Said one bitter Brummie: "If they'd wanted to give them the green light they couldn't have done it better."

CHILD VICTIMS

Against this background even British school kids have been savagely victimised.

The stabbing of 16-year-old John Stoner at school in Bethnal Green, East London, in early 1990 sparked outrage among local people. John's classroom knifing by a gang of Asian fellow pupils almost caused him to bleed to death.

Other incidents involving school children have also come to light. In just one, which has relegated to an inside page of the Bedfordshire Times. a pupil from Bedford Modern School and two of his mates were attacked in the street by seven West Indians. The young lad was knocked unconscious after being racially abused, Police said that this was an "unprovoked racist attack."

In Glasgow just before Christmas a gang of Asian men got together to launch a mass attack on white pupils as they left Shawlands Academy, a school in the City's south side. Some of the pupils sustained bad injuries from blows with baseball bats and other weapons. The pretext for this thinly veiled racial attack was that a white prefect had ticked off an Asian pupil a few days before.

ESTABLISHMENT

Challenged as to what he thought his organisation should do about racial killings of whites by non-whites, a South London activist of the self-styled 'Anti-Racist alliance', which is noted for its loud street agitation over the deaths of non-whites in alleged 'Racist Attacks', said: "We're not interested."

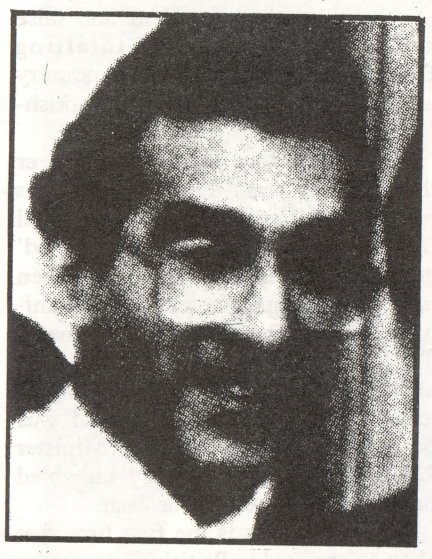
The ARA is fast becoming the mouthpiece of the Establishment. It now has an all-party Parliamentary group including Tories like Richard Shepherd, MP for Aldridge Brownhills and Simon Hughes, Liberal Democrat MP for Bermondsey. These figure among some 50 other M.P.s and members of the House of Lords.

Perhaps it is small wonder that the 'Anti-Racism' of the powers that be is such a one-sided affair.

Asians freed after beating white 'racist' to death

TWO ASIANS who beat a white man to death with hockey sticks after he allegedly shouted 'racist' taunts at them have walked free from Glasgow High Court with 200 hours community service.

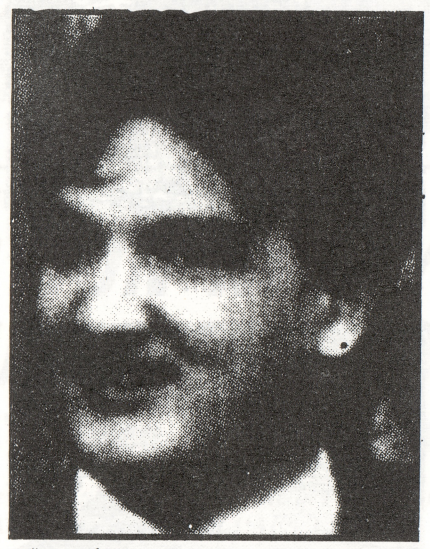
In March 1992, as part of a plea bargaining deal the Asians pleaded not guilty to murder but guilty to the reduced charge of culpable homicide. Sentencing was deferred for a year, during which the killers were released — Judge Lord Cowie ordered them to be "of good behaviour."



KILLER Liaquat Ali walked free from court after beating a white man to death for being a 'racist'

HORRIFIC ATTACK

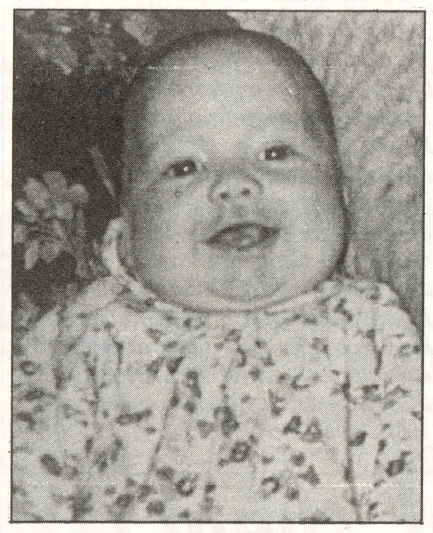
The victim of the horrific attack, father of two Mr Hugh McCallum, had been battered to the ground by the Asians. They claimed he had "racially taunted" them in Punjabi. This provocation, in the view of Lord Cowie, justified the killing of Mr McCallum.



KILLER Azeem Nazie was released

Now just imagine, if the roles had been reversed, and two white men had killed an Asian for racially abusing them in English! Would they have got away with a Community Service order? Somehow we suspect not!

To the fury and dismay of Hugh McCallum's relatives, Lord Cowie released the Asian killers with a glowing testimonial as to their characters, describing them as "useful citizens."



BABY Sean Long was horrifically burned by an Asian petrol bomb

Baby burned by Asian mob

A WHITE baby was scarred for life in a firebomb attack by Asians on a house in Hillfields, Coventry.

Seven-month-old Sean Long was being cared for by neighbours Norman and Lynda Loach while his mother was out.

Shortly before the attack, their son Wayne had an argument with an Asian youth who had threatened his girlfriend.

PETROL BOMB

According to Wayne's sister, the Asian had later come round to the Loaches' house with a gang of friends and thrown a petrol bomb through the window, setting fire to the sofa where baby Sean was sleeping.

Only Norman Loach's prompt action in snatching the baby and putting him under a cold water tap saved him from worse injury and possibly death.

Britain's native white community is now suffering racial attacks on a massive scale, yet the controlled press only reports the much rarer examples of attacks against immigrants

BRITISH whites are becoming increasingly aware that when they are the victims of racial attacks, neither the law, the Establishment politicians, or the so-called 'race relations' agencies are interested.

On page two we reproduce a newspaper report of a particularly horrifying racial attack on two white girls in Thornton Heath, Surrey. What is the reaction of the local 'Racial Equality Council'? They are not interested, because the victims are not 'ethnic minorities'.

RACIAL ATTACKS

Spokescreature Saleha Khan of the Croydon REC mentions only that "those in the ethnic community are angry" about racial attacks. What about the white community? We are the ones who suffer the vast majority of such attacks.

The truth is that anger is growing fast among native Britons who have seen their once peaceful and harmonious country wrecked by the race chaos which their politicians have needlessly and wilfully thrust upon them.

In the Balkans we have seen the tragic results of trying to force incompatible races and religions together. If the level of racial attacks against the white community continues, how long will it be before civil war breaks out in Britain?

THE EVIL DRUG PEDDLER WITH £1MILLION ASSETS

Why was this Jamaican crack-dealer ever allowed into Britain?

A WEST INDIAN crack baron is to lose nine of his homes after being convicted of drug-peddling.

Evil Wendell Daniels owns five houses in London and another four in Jamaica, but now stands to have all five confiscated, along with a garage and off-licence he also owns, after a judge at the Inner London Crown Court ordered the seizure of drug-profits worth over half a million pounds.

DRUG-dealer Wendell Daniels. Why was he allowed into our country?

CRACK DEN

Daniels was arrested leaving a London crack den, where police found a rock of crack the size of a cow-pat.

The £662,444 confiscation is a record for Britain, but police believe Daniels still has £1million hidden in the Caribbean which the British authorities cannot touch.

A senior detective commented: "This man has so much he probably views this as a good result."

DRUGS BOOM

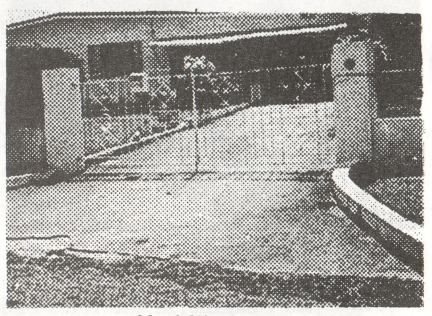
The evil drug-dealer pitched up in Britain in 1965, and made most of his fortune peddling crack during the drugs boom of the 1980s.

His homes in Jamaica are worth £250,000, and his London properties cost him £433,987.

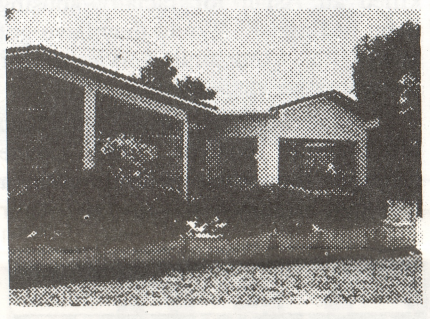
Daniels had links with Jamaican Yardie gangs currently terrorising Britain. The gangs specialise in drug-dealing and prostitution.

This case highlights the sort of criminal dross which the Tory Government is encouraging to enter our country. Under the present system Britain has almost no effective immigration controls, and little attention is paid as to whether those entering the country have criminal records in their homelands.

Luxury home No.1...



....Luxury home No.2...



...Luxury home No.3. The houses pictured above, all in Jamaica, were bought from the proceeds of Wendell Daniels' drug-dealing activities in London. The Tory Government has allowed literally millions of alien immigrants into the country, many of whom already have criminal records in their homelands. Many third world crooks pitch up in Britain because they can make far higher profits here from drugs, prostitution and social security fraud than they can in their own poverty-stricken countries.

CORRECTION

In the April 1993 edition of British Nationalist an article concerning Asian violence in Halifax was published entitled 'White folk under siege in Halifax race-war hell'. The photograph originally intended to accompany the article was inadvertently substituted by another which in fact showed a London-based Asian pop-group who were completely unconnected with the violence in Halifax.

We regret any confusion which may have been caused.

B.B.C. BOSSES PAID BONUS TO RECRUIT MORE BLACKS

BBC MANAGERS are being given cash bonuses to boost numbers of black and other ethnic minorities.

Some senior executives are likely to be paid thousands of pounds under performance-related wage deals to achieve ethnic recruitment targets.

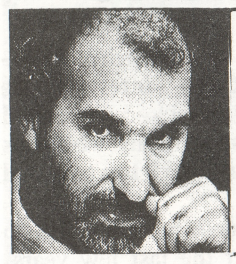
The BBC has admitted that the bonuses are being paid to managers who achieve their recruitment targets for ethnics which were felt to be "under-represented."

A spokesman said: "The BBC is an equal opportunities employer. We aim to reflect the nation we serve."

Since the nation now has at least seven million 'ethnic minorities', we can expect to see even more aliens appearing on our TV screens.

The controller of BBC1, Alan Yentob, is himself a member of a particularly powerful and vociferous ethnic minority whose origins lie in the Middle East.

Through its perverted propaganda programmes purporting to show the 'reality' of modern day Britain, Yentob's BBC is helping to poison the minds of ordinary British people and hasten the destruction of our country.



BBC1 Controller Alan Yentob is promoting 'Politically Correct' race-mixing programmes

BBC programmes such as 'Eastenders' portray a sick, perverted version of Britain in which race-mixing, homosexuality, drug-addiction and AIDS are presented as everyday 'normality'.

Even worse than the perverted trash designed to entertain adults are the children's programmes such as 'Grange Hill' which constantly push multi-racial propaganda and the hidden agenda of the 'Politically Correct' movement.

MAJOR VOWS TO CREATE ASIAN PEERS IN TORY FINANCE BID

Tories woo 'ethnic' lobby for hard cash and cheap votes

IN A DESPERATE bid to raise cash for his ailing Tory Government, John Major has promised to swamp the House of Lords with newly-created Asian peers.

Last month Major told a gathering of 800 wealthy Asian businessmen: "We want you in the Conservative Party."

Names already put forward for a possible peerage include Narindar Saroop, the Indian founder of the 'Anglo-Indian Conservative Society' and Shawar Sadeque, a Bangladeshi on the BBC Board of Governors.

According to the Daily Telegraph (18.04.93):

> "It can safely be assumed that Mr Major's initiative will not harm his party's fund-raising efforts. Tory Central Office acknowledges that without the support of voters of Indian origin, the party would not have won several key seats in London and its suburbs."

One former contributor to Tory funds was disgraced Turkish businessman Asil Nadir, who failed to declare a £443,000 payment to the Tories.

FALSE ACCOUNTING

Nadir, on bail for theft and false accounting charges totalling £30million, has since fled the country and is now living in luxury in Turkish-occupied Northern Cyprus.

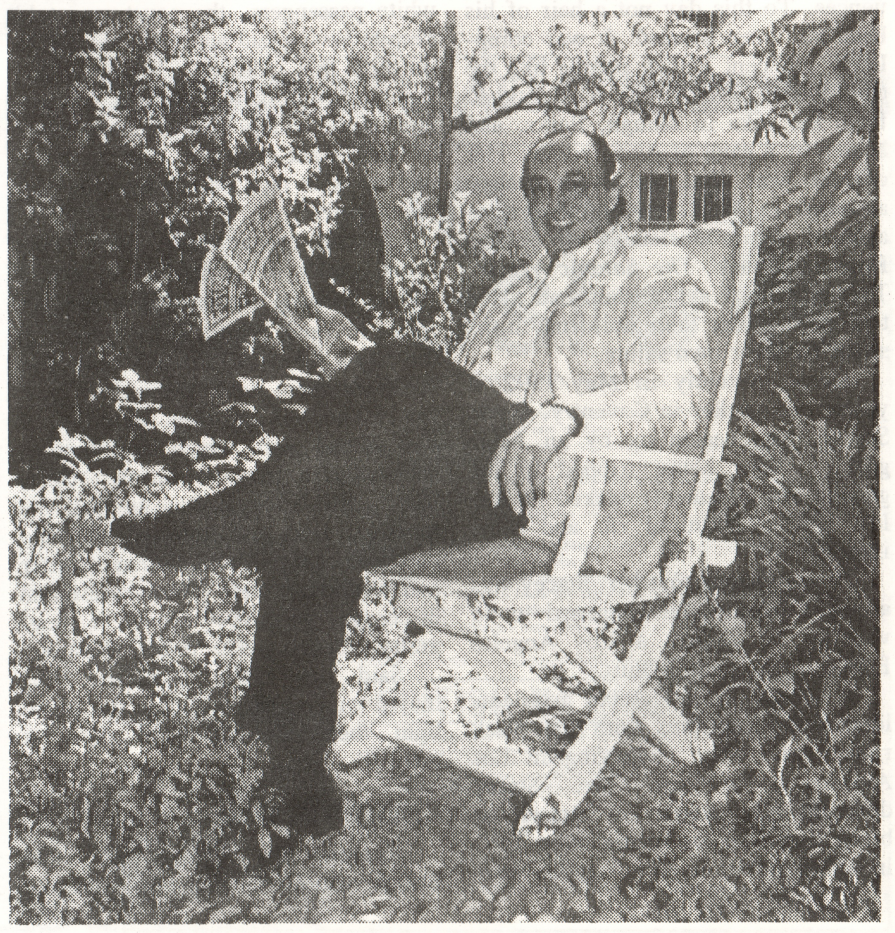
According to a recent report, over the past five years the Tory party has received £40million (from a total income of £68million) in 'unexplained' donations, many of which have been made by foreigners trying to buy influence within the British Government. The sale of peerages has of course always had an important place in the great 'Democracy' swindle, and was popularised by Liberal Prime Minister Lloyd-George, who openly ennobled businessmen in return for cash.

However, this is the first time that alien as opposed to British businessmen have been offered peerages to encourage cash donations to the Tories.

This must surely be one of the most despicable and sordid schemes yet dreamed up by the Tory traitors.

John Major (left) among his Asian friends. The latest cynical Tory scam involves swamping the House of Lords with rich Asians.

Turkish bail-bandit Asil Nadir (below) contributed £443,000 to Tory funds.



One law for them, and one law for us...

THE PHOTO above was taken not in the middle of Bombay or Calcutta, but in Southall, west London. Apparently the armed men in the foreground are celebrating the sikh festival of Baisakhi (whatever that is).

It is apparently perfectly acceptable in the eyes of our Government that a mob of aliens should be permitted to march through our streets carrying offensive weapons such as these vicious-looking swords, in a clear act of provocation to the native white community. Yet, as many BNP activists are aware, a recent British National Party march through Walsall in a predominantly white area was forbidden by the police from displaying the British flag on the grounds that the wooden flag poles were regarded as 'offensive weapons'! A perfect example of our multi-racial 'democracy' — one rule for them and one rule for us.

WARM WELCOME IN WATFORD

BNP triumphs as local folk chase red trash out of South Oxhey

Peter Illing has good reason to feel proud after gaining the best result (4.5 per cent) out of all the British National Party candidates in last month's local elections. The Watford unit worked hard during the campaign, and staged a high-profile public election meeting which gained massive media coverage. The media bonus was due in no small part to the antics of a red mob which had vowed to stop the meeting. The reds of course failed, and in the event did not even have the guts to enter the Gosforth Lane hall to heckle the BNP.

The unwashed communist rabble at first contented themselves with screaming abuse from outside the meeting hall, but by the time the BNP meeting finished, the reds were nowhere to be seen. It seems a group of around seventy local people, mostly youngsters, had got so fed up with the antics of the red gangsters that they took it upon themselves to chase them out of the town! So much for the 'public support' that the reds claim to have. Inside the meeting, BNP supporters listened to speeches by Peter Illing, Party Leader John Tyndall, and David Bruce.

Preaching politics of fear

THE politics of fear forced people off the streets as members of the British National Party staged an election meeting in a South Oxhey community centre on Saturday.

by Lesley Hitchen

Police shepherded more than 70 BNP supporters from Carpenders Park Station to the social centre in Gosforth Lane for an election address by the party's South Oxhey candidate.

At the centre they were confronted by dozens of protesters from the Anti-Nazi League and Anti-Racist Alliance.

Riot police in full combat gear mingled among the 200-strong police force which patrolled the centre and surrounding streets.

Many shops remained closed, while shutters were pulled on those open for business. Streets were deserted as people heeded police advice to stay away.

Describing the police operation as one of the largest ever seen in the area, a representative said it aimed to protect life and property, allow a legitimate election meeting to take place, uphold the right of people to demonstrate in a non-violent manner and allow the residents of South Oxhey to go about their business as normally as possible.

Business as normal was an impossibility for several shopkeepers who opted to close for the day.

Manager of L. Cook Florist, of Station Approach, Mrs Shirley Kelly, said she knew several Asian shopkeepers had decided not to open because they were frightened of violence.

"We were thinking of closing ourselves because no customers were coming down.

"It is just ridiculous because this is supposed to be a busy time, a Bank Holiday weekend, but the town is deserted," she said.

Deputy manager of the CRS Stop and Shop in St Andrews Way, Mr Graham Button, said he had been told by head office to keep the shutters down to protect display windows.

"We are under strict instructions not to shut early if we can help it, and we have had to reconsider staffing today, having suggested to one of our Asian staff that she should not come to work today in case of trouble," he said.

Their are expecting to take part in the Diwali and Vaisakhi lasons at Oxhey Infant and Junior and Theatre Acts were open with locked doors and a line of police officers.

A school representative said: "We were advised to cancel the classes we hold on a Saturday between 9am and 2pm at the centre by officers at Three Rivers District Council, so, I understand, were activities by the police.

"We felt it inappropriate for the children to come to the centre in light of the heavy police presence and tried to contact as many of our pupils as possible to warn them that the classes were cancelled.

"I also sat in the centre during the morning to make sure youngsters who turned up because they did not know classes had been cancelled would get home safely."

A karate class scheduled to take place between 9am to 11am had to be scrapped and visitors to the Fits and Starts gym were also turned away.

Leader of Watford Borough Council Councillor Mike Jackson, who joined Anti-Nazi League and Anti-Racist Alliance demonstrators, was shocked Three Rivers District Council had allowed the meeting to take place in the centre.

He said: "There is a lot of anxiety on the estate about the BNP and I am appalled they have been allowed to meet in the community centre.

"My own daughter was supposed to have had a dance class there this morning and she has been turned away.

"We just want to show local residents that there is opposition to the BNP and to give them support to shopkeepers and residents here."

Chief Executive of Three Rivers District Council Mr Alastair Robertson, who spent time at the police control unit overseeing the meeting, said the council had to allow the meeting to take place under the legislation.

"The BNP chose to use the social centre and we discussed what was a reasonable request.

"Originally, the party asked for a whole day's hire of the hall for a meeting and then a bar and disco in the evening.

"We totally rejected that idea, but had to let them hold a public meeting for campaigning purposes.

"That is the point of democracy. Obviously, if it had been a private meeting we would not have allowed it."

Chief Inspector Terry Cox said the police operation had been highly succesful, involving officers from Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and Cambridgeshire.

"We are very pleased with how it went and, provided stand there was only one incident during the day and that was to do with a totally unrelated matter."

SHOPKEEPERS and managers stood bewildered in South Oxhey's shopping parade on Saturday afternoon.

As 4pm St Andrews Road stood deserted, the street lined with shuttered shop windows.

"It's like a ghost town," said a man coming out of the bakery.

"I only nipped out because we ran out of bread. The wife has stayed away."

Outside the barricaded windows of the Co-op stood a policeman and his dog bracing up and down the quiet row.

The only sign of life came from the packed pub at the top of the street, where several skinheaded young men milled around outside waiting and watching.

The blame for the empty streets could not be laid on the nearby Rugby League match, Watford Rugby Club as the Hornets were playing away from home.

Live coverage of the Rugby League Challenge Cup would have interested a few, but not cleared the streets.

Politics was the name of the game that afternoon with an election meeting of the British National Party at the social centre in Gosforth Lane.

Throughout the morning, members of the Anti-Nazi League and the Anti-Racist Alliance gathered in the parade to demonstrate against the forthcoming meeting.

Banners with the message "Stop Racist Murders" were carried high as the demonstrators chanted "No way, no way, BNP" and their methods of politicising were distributed to the few who rushed around before the BNP's arrival.

Hundreds of police officers patrolled the area while curious residents hung out of top floor windows to see what would happen when the two groups met.

A confused motorist asked: "Where are all the police doing here? Is there something going on?"

"The BNP are coming to the social centre," said a passerby.

"Who are they, then?" was the motorist's reply.

Shortly before 3pm the police massed at the tunnel of Carpenders Park Station to escort the column of BNP supporters up Fairfield Avenue towards the centre.

Chants began on both sides, "White Alright" clashing violently with the cries to rid the streets of "Nazi Scum."

An order was given by the police ground commander and half-a-dozen police vans suddenly accelerated towards the centre, cutting off the opposing groups from each other.

Policemen rushed forward to form a human barrier as tension heightened.

Raising clenched fists and punching the air, people on both sides of the cordon screamed insults.

Singing Rule Britannia as they were escorted into the hall, the BNP supporters snaked their way into their meeting.

The cries and yells died down, then rose once more as crowds viewing police vans allowed themselves a brief smile as trouble was averted.

Inside the hall the 70 or so BNP supporters sat on seats taped together to prevent them being used as missiles and listened to three party speakers for more than an hour.

National Organiser Mr David Bruce addressed the audience for their support.

Explosive applause, punctuated now and again by muffled commands from the police radios of officers lining the walls, greeted the BNP candidate for South Oxhey Mr Peter Illing.

Mr Illing 25, of Abbots Langley, thanked the crowd for its support and said he would be as brief as possible in his first attempt at public speaking.

BNP chairman Mr John Tyndall spoke about the former British empire and the state of the country now.

Although an open meeting, the Anti-Nazi League and Anti-Racist Alliance protesters did not take up the invitation to listen to the BNP speakers.

Stoney faced faces watched the BNP crowd being marched back down to the train station by the police after the meeting.

A moment for a police spokesman to reflect upon the success of the operations.

"It went OK," he said, watching the convoy tailing across Prestwick Road.

"We are just pleased that there were no violent clashes between the two sides and that the meeting passed without any real incident."

COLNE ELECTION RALLY WINS MASSIVE PUBLICITY FOR B.N.P.

Yet another 'own goal' scored by Government's ANAL stooges

The British National Party scored a resounding propaganda victory on Saturday, 1st of May, when the combined forces of the Socialist Wkers Party ('ANAL') and Militant ('AFA') failed in their bid to stop a BNP election rally in Colne, Lancashire.

Having made a "categoric promise" to stop the meeting, ANAL and Co. were made to look spectacularly stupid as the open-air public rally went on under their very noses. As the local newspaper report (below) clearly states: "Despite the action by protesters, the British National Party went ahead with the meeting in support of county council election candidate Shaun Crambie."

The rally was held in the open air because the local council had illegally refused the BNP a meeting hall — despite the fact that the Party had a right to such a meeting under the terms of the Representation of the People Act. As in the past, the Establishment simply ignored its own legal system and acted illegally to pervert the course of an election, in a perfect demonstration of the 'Democracy' swindle.

As around 70 BNP supporters formed up at a recreation ground, a mob of sub-human red reactionaries charged down the hill towards them, presumably expecting the nationalists to run. Instead, the BNP stood firm, and the 'attack' suddenly stopped dead in its tracks, with the red trash (as always) hiding behind the police.

As the BNP surged forward to disperse them, the red rabble turned tail and ran back towards the recreation centre, where upon they attacked a car-load of bewildered footballers who were nothing to do with the BNP. Having failed miserably to stop the BNP meeting, the reds contented themselves with attacking the police and local people. One of the brave 'revolutionaries' even stabbed a police dog — a despicable act which exposes the hypocrisy of their 'animal rights' posturing.

Thanks to the commotion and criminal damage caused by the reds, a crowd of local people soon joined the audience to hear what the BNP had to say. North West Organiser Ken Henderson opened the meeting, which was then addressed by candidate Shaun Crambie and guest speaker John Peacock, the BNP's Midlands Organiser.

RACIST RALLY FURY

By RALPH MARSHALL

THE racist British National Party is set to hold a May Day election rally in a major council hall just yards away from a town's leading mosque.

But the man who aims to bring in 200 right-wing extremist supporters to Nelson from throughout the North West, says he is not intent on provoking racial tension.

Shaun Crambie, 23, is fighting a Colne seat at the county council elections.

He said: "I am no Hitler worshipper. I just believe in putting British people first."

He has booked Silverman Hall for a four-hour rally on May 1.

Opposing Anti-Nazi League supporters aim to hold counter rallies in Colne Library and pubs in the town.

Mr Crambie, of Walton Street, Colne, claims he has received threatening letters.

Venue

He says he would prefer to hold his meeting in Colne but the Municipal Hall had already been booked and the library was "too quiet."

He added: "I didn't even know there was a mosque near Silverman Hall."

Pendle chief executive Stephen Barnes, said he hoped to meet Mr Crambie to try to agree a venue in Colne.

But he made it clear there was no question ... ly from the racially sensitive area.

Superintendent Peter Rawsthorne on Nelson police said every political party had a democratic right to hold meetings.

He would expect them to conduct themselves in a proper manner and express their views moderately.

A Colne library spokesman said no decision had yet been made on whether the Anti-Nazi league meeting would be allowed ... to go ahead in th...

The Lancashire Evening Telegraph (above) ran an illegal and libellous smear campaign against BNP candidate Sean Crambie, falsely accusing him of having a 'criminal record'. This reduced the size of the BNP vote to some extent, but otherwise the campaign was a valuable exercise in terms of publicity and recruitment, which maintained the already high profile of the British National Party in Lancashire. Despite hostile media coverage, the BNP is making considerable headway in the North-West region.

Two officers hurt as protesters' bid to disrupt meeting turns nasty

POLICE arrested six people after protesters clashed with British National Party supporters at an election rally.

One car was smashed, two officers were slightly injured and a police dog was stabbed or cut during one of the clashes at the Colne rally, organised by the BNP. Some of the police were wearing full riot gear

Protesters from the Anti-Nazi League and the Anti-Fascist Alliance — many bussed in from across the North West — tried to disrupt the meeting.

A crowd of about 100 protesters besieged Colne police station for almost two hours demanding the release of a member of the Anti-Nazi League.

Traffic diversions were put into operation and some market stalls closed early because of the trouble.

Despite the action by protesters, the British National Party went ahead with the meeting in support of county council election candidate Shaun Crambie.

But it had to be held outdoors — half-way between 75 members of the Anti-Fascist Alliance and a crowd of about 90 supporters of the Anti-Nazi League.

League members had marched out to Ball Grove, Cottontree after distributing leaflets in Colne town centre.

Police prevented them from reaching the site of the BNP meeting, to be addressed by Midlands regional organiser John Peacock.

Elbow

Shaun Crambie, and his supporters accepted police advice and were escorted out of Cottontree bypassing both groups of protestors.

The meeting had been previously switched to Ball Grove recreation area from Silverman Hall, Nelson, only yards from the main mosque.

Shortly before their meeting was due to begin about 75 members of the AFA, many with scarves covering their faces, stormed down the hill from Keighley Road.

When they spotted the BNP members coming into the recreation ground from the opposite direction they charged down the hill at them.

One bottle and a number of stones were thrown but police kept the factions apart.

The group of 36 BNP supporters with banners and two Union Flags were lined up facing the AFA members across an open field.

Chants and insults were exchanged but suddenly the AFA group turned, charging back up the hill to the recreation centre.

When they saw four local young men in a parked car they smashed every window in the vehicle.

One of the four in the car complained he had nothing to do with any of the groups but he had been hit by stones, one on the elbow and one on the leg.

A local spokesman for the Anti-Nazi League said he was delighted at the numbers who turned up to distribute leaflets in Colne town centre.

He said: "We try to persuade people and don't want to alienate people who are already on our side.

"We have the same aims as the Anti-Fascist Alliance but don't necessarily approve of their more direct methods and we don't agree with smashing property if that is what has been happening."

During the disturbances six people were arrested for public order and criminal damage offences. Two police officers were slightly injured.

JOIN THE WELLING CLUB

THE WELLING CLUB is a circle of British National Party supporters who are able and willing to contribute £20 a month to the BNP.

Now that the Party is entering the 'big league' of British politics there is clearly a need for a regular source of income with which to finance necessary expansion.

Money for new equipment, administrative staff, transport and election expenses inevitably becomes more and more necessary as the BNP expands.

A number of members and supporters have already joined the Welling Club, and the additional source of income has proved most useful.

In return for their monthly £20 contributions, members of the Club will receive regular special news bulletins, and will be invited free of charge to an annual dinner, which will be addressed by the Party Chairman.

Those who wish to join the Welling Club should write to: The Welling Club, PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW, enclosing their first contribution of £20. Contributions can if desired also be made by bankers order, details of which will be provided on receipt of initial payments.

'Racist party not wanted'

● Flashback ... how we reported the BNP's bid in Erewash in last year's General Election.

I WANT TO BE ELECTED

Town is first target for the extreme right

EXCLUSIVE by Julie Crouch

A DERBYSHIRE town has been hand-picked by the extreme right-wing British National Party to launch its bid for power throughout the country.

Ilkeston has been chosen by the BNP as a starting point to grab power throughout the county — and then the rest of Britain.

Targeted

The group has selected tiny Cotmanhay, in Ilkeston, which has a population of 5,960 and 11 per cent unemployment, to put up a candidate at next month's county elections.

Textile worker John Leather (52), of Church Street, Riddings, has been chosen by the BNP to fight for the seat.

He says the BNP, which openly campaigns for foreigners to be kicked out of Britain, has targeted Ilkeston because there is high unemployment and few blacks and Asians.

Mr Leather, who works as a warehouse operative at Aristoc, in Langley Mill, does not expect to win. But the party is confident of picking up more valuable supporters ready for the day when it will be able to make a serious bid for power.

Mr Leather reckons that day will be soon as unemployment and deprivation gets steadily worse in Britain and people look for a way out.

Last year, the BNP collected 645 votes when it put in a candidate for the Erewash parliamentary constituency at the General Election.

Anti-Nazi campaigners have vowed to disrupt any election meetings the BNP plans to hold

ILKESTON B.N.P. UNIT WINS BIG VOTES — AND BIG HEADLINES

ANAL thugs clobbered by their own weapons as red demo flops

ILKESTON BNP has had a superb election campaign, gaining over 100 votes, 3.5 per cent of the poll.

Candidate John Leather achieved more than three times the percentage won by the BNP in the same area in last year's General Election.

HEADLINES

The campaign also yielded a crop of excellent front-page headlines in the local press, largely thanks to the efforts of our opponents in ANAL.

ANAL's bid to stop a BNP public election rally failed in a particularly spectacular way when, according to the local press, the unwashed lefties were spat upon by local people, verbally abused, and finally beaten up with their own weapons.

The public rally was intended as a deliberate act of provocation to the reds, and they rose to the bait with the breath-taking stupidity that we have come to expect from them.

THUGS

The reds had organised gangs of thugs ('AFA') from as far away as London and Liverpool, who came equipped with baseball bats and other weaponry in order to attack the BNP. They certainly meant business, as a couple of local supporters narrowly avoided being set upon by a van load of thugs on the way to the meeting. One of the thugs in the van was recognised as a local Labour candidate from nearby Mansfield.

But if the reds' plan of action hit problems from the word 'go'. Firstly, they failed to find the venue, and spent half the night driving around Ilkeston before deciding to form up outside the Community Centre.

But local folk did not give the Socialist Wkers a very friendly reception! Most people in Ilkeston, which is an overwhelmingly white rural area, had never before come across such dregs from the inner cities; and they were not impressed with what they saw. Unwashed hippies, drug-addicts, work-shy 'anarchists', queers, lesbians and other left-wing dross rubbed shoulders with foreign immigrants of varying descriptions.

It was therefore no wonder that, as the Ilkeston Advertiser reported: "One group said they were spat at and subjected to racist taunts..."

According to reports on local television and radio news, one local man was so annoyed at being given an ANAL leaflet that he threw his bicycle at the reds and was arrested for threatening behaviour!

The 'highlight' of the evening was when, according to the local press, the 100-strong ANAL gathering "was stormed by a gang of twelve men who burst from the back of a van."

The Ilkeston Herald and Post reported: "Beer glasses and sticks were thrown and people in the rally were attacked with their own placards which were snatched from them." So much for 'Anti-Fascist Action'!

SUCCESSFUL MEETING

After all this excitement, it may seem something of an anti-climax to report on the actual BNP meeting itself, which was in fact very successful.

Although the reds did not find the location of the meeting, it was decided early on to move to an alternative venue to forestall any attempt at disruption by the communists or the local authorities.

Reporters from the Ilkeston Advertiser were invited to attend the meeting, and had agreed to be escorted to it by BNP stewards, but instead chose to secretly follow the group to the venue and try to infiltrate their way in under cover. They were immediately spotted and ordered to leave. The BNP has nothing to hide from the press, but these reporters abused our trust by behaving dishonestly.

ENCOURAGEMENT

Guest-speaker Richard Edmonds had travelled up from Welling to give his encouragement to the Ilkeston campaign, and he was given a warm welcome from the seventy or so people present, most of whom were Ilkeston locals who had never been to a BNP meeting before. There could be no better introduction to the Party than this.

MAIDEN SPEECH

Candidate John Leather gave an excellent maiden speech, and a collection was held to help raise money for the campaign.

Thanks to the antics of ANAL, what would have been a low-key meeting made front-page headlines in every local paper and gave a welcome last-minute boost to the Ilkeston campaign.

Thirteen arrests after Anti-Nazi protest

Report by Peter Pheasant and John Howorth

BOTH sides were claiming victory this week after a tense evening of cat-and-mouse politics which brought violence to the streets of Cotmanhay.

At least three Anti-Nazi League members were hurt when a peaceful gathering outside the community centre was stormed by a gang of men who burst from the back of a van at Skeavingtons Lane.

Police later arrested 13 men — three from Nottingham, the rest local. They were bailed pending further inquiries.

ANL members from Erewash, Derby and Nottingham had gathered in Ilkeston in a bid to stop the extreme-right British National Party from holding a "public" meeting in the town. They claimed success.

But the BNP said the first meeting of its new Ilkeston branch had gone ahead "after a successful switch in venues".

We can reveal that about 40 BNP supporters, mainly skinheads, moved to Heanor after gathering at West End Drive and the Rutland Arms car park.

The same cars and minibuses were seen soon afterwards in the car park of Heanor's Jolly Colliers pub.

Waving the vans in, after emerging from the pub, was a far-right activist of international notoriety: Ian Stuart Donaldson. He was lead singer of the skinhead band Skrewdriver, described by anti-fascists as "recruiting sergeants for the far right".

But the pub's landlady said she had never heard of the BNP. "I don't know anything about this meeting. We have a quiz night on Mondays," she said.

The BNP is targeting Cotmanhay in next month's county council elections. It gained 645 votes in last year's general election in Erewash and says most of its support came from Cotmanhay.

John Leather, a 52-year-old textile worker from Riddings, is the BNP candidate against Derrick Kendrick (Lab), Barbara Harrison (Cons) and John Hodgins (Lib Dem).

Although the BNP described Monday's meeting as public, it was determined to keep the venue a secret, even breaking a promise to allow an Advertiser reporter to cover it.

By 6.30pm, 60 or so ANL members had gathered outside Ilkeston Town Hall.

A spokesman said that, as well as stopping the meeting from taking place, they wanted to tell people what the BNP was all about.

"They are an open Nazi party. They campaign on the back of being patriots and that, particularly in recession times, when people say things like 'jobs for whites', does hit a message in areas of high unemployment.

"But if you scratch below the surface of their very shallow politics, the reality is that they stand for racial hatred."

BNP candidate John Leather

Another organiser predicted that the BNP would get a "pitiful" vote but said they had to be taken seriously. Fascists were encouraged by results in France and Germany and wanted to emulate that here.

Chants of "Can you see the master race? They're too sacred to show their face" rang out around the Market Place as police kept a low profile.

But where WAS this meeting?

A group of Ilkeston ANL members toured the area but could find "no Nazis anywhere", so the protest moved to Cotmanhay. Earlier, 'phone calls had been made to pubs along Cotmanhay Road in the hope of tracking down the venue.

The new base was Cotmanhay Community Centre's car park. By now, the ANL had grown to about 100 and split into groups to door-knock local streets, spreading the word.

The community centre had been seen as a possible venue, but an access group was meeting there as the canvassers set to work. A solitary ANL member remained when a van-load of skinheads pulled into the car park. Three marched purposefully into the centre but quickly returned.

BNP or the extremist Anti Fascist Action group? They weren't saying a word to journalists.

The ANL teams, who now included a mild-mannered woman of 60, returned with 172 signatures on a petition asking "are you against Nazi candidates?".

One group said they were spat at and subjected to racist taunts outside the 'Hand and Heart'; most reported that people were confused about who was contesting the election and what the BNP was; all agreed the overwhelming reaction was favourable.

Rajinder Bains, of the Indian Workers' Association, said he knocked on about 30 doors. "Most of the people said they had experienced them during the war and they didn't want Nazis here."

The BNP said in a statement that its meeting went ahead "despite opposition from about 100 Communist parasites". It was attended by over 90 members and addressed by candidate John Leather and BNP national activities organiser Richard Emonds, said Ilkeston organiser Simon Smith.

FRIENDS and workmates of pretty Deborah Bisson were devastated this week by news of her death.

Twenty-seven-year old Deborah — whose nickname was Big Deb — died on Friday at Birmingham's Queen Eliza...

THANKS to the antics of 'ANAL' the British National Party's public election meeting in Ilkeston achieved massive publicity in local newspapers.

The Ilkeston Advertiser (left) reported that local people spat on the red trash and finally battered them with the reds' own weapons.

The same report admitted that the reds had failed to stop the meeting and that at least forty people attended (in fact there were over seventy — and this was despite the fact that a dozen supporters were arrested on route).

The Ilkeston Herald and Post (below) also reported that ANAL was "attacked" — carefully avoiding to mention the fact that the red mob had themselves come tooled-up and in the words of a local police spokesman "hell-bent on causing trouble."

Despite (or because of!) the hysterical press reports, the BNP achieved its biggest ever vote in Derbyshire.

Skinheads launch attack on Anti-Nazi League campaigners

Violent protest

■ Two ANL protesters near St Mary's Church, Ilkeston, during the peaceful start of the Anti-Nazi League rally

RACIAL tension which has been simmering in Cotmanhay boiled over when Anti-Nazi League campaigners were attacked by skinheads.

What was supposed to be a peaceful rally turned ugly when a gang, believed to be British National Party supporters, hurled abuse – and then violence broke out.

Although one person was injured and 12 men were later arrested in Heanor, the police, keen to defuse the situation, released only briefs factual details and were reluctant to comment.

But with a BNP candidate standing for Cotmanhay in the county council elections – the main reason for Monday night's rally – there must be concern about the possibility of repeat scenes during the run up to voting on May 6.

About 80 members of the Erewash and Derby wings of the ANL had gathered at Ilkeston where they hoped to locate and picket the venue of a BNP meeting they understood to be taking place. Skinheads in a car drove past hurling abuse and making Nazi salutes.

Report by Neil Jackson

The ANL campaigners then travelled to Cotmanhay where they split into smaller teams to distribute leaflets and collect petition signatures.

About 30 had regrouped at a rendezvous when skinheads reappeared in a white transit van.

The verbal volleys developed into physical violence.

Beer glasses and sticks were thrown and people in the rally were attacked with their own placards which were snatched from them. One of their Derby branch organisers suffered a cut eye.

The men arrested in Heanor were released...

STOKE ELECTION TRIUMPH

STOKE BNP is celebrating its excellent 4.1 per cent vote in last month's local elections.

Strong local campaign results in excellent vote, new members and media coverage

The campaign run by the Stoke Unit was a text-book example of how the BNP intends to establish local support in key areas of the country as a first step towards winning power nationwide.

LOCAL ISSUES

The strategy of the BNP is to fight for British whites on the key local issues which affect them, whether in jobs, housing, or any other area where they are being treated as second-class citizens.

The issue adopted by the Stoke Unit was that of resistance an alien religious cult which was making life hell for local white residents in the Fenton area of the city. The Asian 'Pandariman Centre' was allowed by the City Council to set up shop in the centre of Fenton, despite bitter opposition from the predominantly white residents of the area. The noise, smell and disruption from the Centre caused outrage among local white folk.

BNP SUPPORT

The BNP offered its support to the local residents' association, which was facing a massive onslaught from an outfit calling itself the North Staffordshire 'Racial Equality Council'. The REC had the cheek to demand the white residents' association to drop its campaign to close the Pandariman Centre and fight the BNP instead! Needless to say, the whites refused to do any such thing.

Residents' association spokesman Neale Sheldon had arranged a meeting with the leaders of the Pandariman Centre in the hope of persuading them to reduce at least some of the constant noise and disruption created by the cult: "But the REC had been invited along and when I spoke to one of their officials I was told they wanted us to join with the Pandariman Trust to campaign against the British National Party. We do not want anything to do with that."

Well said! But just what is this so-called 'Racial Equality Council'?

The REC (there are branches in all major towns and cities) is a Government-sponsored quango which aims to promote various alien causes in the name of 'equality' for immigrants.

Many of its leading lights are Labour councillors and other left-wing riff-raff who aim to make a fast buck out of the race industry.

The wages of the left-wing trash who run such outfits are of course heavily subsidised by the British taxpayer.

BOASTED

Stafford Labour Councillor Jamie Calder, who chairs the REC in the area where the BNP's campaign was launched, recently boasted that she had won an extra £1,000 grant from Stafford Borough Council (i.e. the ratepayers) 'to fight growing racism' in the town. This was on top of another grant of £5,800 already made by the Borough Council to the REC. Calder claimed the money would give "a clear message to the BNP that they are not wanted here."

Unfortunately for Cllr Calder, last month's election result clearly shows that the people of Fenton DO want the BNP in the Borough. Despite intimidation from the REC, bribes offered by the local Council, and hysterical propaganda dished out by the local (controlled) press, local Brits defied them all and voted BNP.

CALL FOR RACIST BAN ESCALATES

by AMANDA ELLIOT

CALLS for a ban on racist groups meeting in Stafford town centre grew this week following a demonstration by a right-wing group on Saturday.

A dozen flag-waving members of the British National Party spent several hours trying to recruit shoppers outside Boots in Market Square.

Youths approached people asking them to buy copies of the party paper British Nationalist.

Angry anti-racist campaigners say their presence was "intimidating" to ethnic minorities.

They are calling for Stafford Borough Council to ban all racist groups from using council property "before it gets out of hand".

Under current rules any political group is free to demonstrate.

A recent bid to tighten controls on the use of the square was rejected by councillors who feared it would erode freedom of speech.

"What more proof do we need that they are trying to recruit in Stafford?" said Mark Moore, Staffordshire University's student anti-racism officer.

"The council must act quickly to stop them gaining a foothold in the town otherwise it may escalate into a very nasty situation."

One angry pensioner complained to him that he had fought a war to rid society of racists, not to see them in his town centre.

Mrs Jane Corson, franchisee of Stafford's Body Shop, said she objected to her customers having to run a the BNP gauntlet.

"I don't think Market Square should be used for that sort of thing.

"Not only am I personally against everything they stand for, but from a commercial point of view it is very off-putting to shoppers."

Anti-racist hijack fears stop talks on Muslim centre

By Nigel Howle

PROPOSED talks over a Muslim centre have been postponed because residents' fear they may be hijacked by anti-racism campaigners.

A residents' association in Oldfield Street, Fenton, was due to meet followers of Pir Pandariman who have won permission to set up a centre in Oldfield Street despite bitter opposition from residents.

But the association last night voted to call off the talks, claiming centre leaders had invited officials from North Staffordshire Racial Equality Council.

Spokesman Neale Sheldon said: "We wanted a meeting solely between the association and the centre with an independent chairman to discuss planning problems relating to the centre.

"But the REC had been invited along and when I spoke to one of their officials yesterday I was told they wanted us to join with the Pandariman Trust to campaign against the British National Party.

Criticised

"We do not want anything to do with that. We still want a meeting but it must be to discuss planning matters."

The BNP has criticised Stoke-on-Trent City Council for allowing the centre to be set up and is to put up a candidate in the Fenton Green ward at May's county council election.

No-one at the centre was available for comment today.

REC official Abdul Hafeez said: "We have been asked to attend because it is the role of the REC to address race issues. We understand the BNP is very active in the area."

80 march in Anti-Nazi protes

ABOUT 80 people took part in an Anti-Nazi League rally in Stoke-on-Trent to protest at British National Party plans to field candidates in May's local county council elections.

The group, including national ANL members and groups from Crewe and Alsager College, Staffordshire University and Crewe ANL, marched from Fenton Park to Longton Recreation Ground in the town last weekend.

She said: "I was very pleased the borough council supported the activities of the REC and this will give a clear

Saturday. They addressed by Ste Trent South MP George Stevenson.

The BNP has recently begun leafleting homes in Fenton and Hanley.

There is not a huge ethnic population in the town but the REC needs to have some show from the local authority to prove that we do value them as well.

'Ignore racists' call by chairman

Racial equality chiefs are warning people to be on their guard after members of the British Nationalist Party were spotted canvassing in Stafford town centre.

She said around ten members of the BNP had been seen in Market Square selling the party newspaper and handing out anti-immigration leaflets to passers-by recently.

But she added that there are no steps which can be taken to prevent this kind of activity and the BNP were well within their rights.

"This is a matter which has come up in borough council, but the

"The best way to send them packing is to ignore rather than try and stop them, because restricting them will probably make them even more active."

Cllr Calder advised members of the public not to get into confrontations with the group.

Grant 'message to racist group'

STAFFORD Race Equality Council has won an extra £1,000 grant from Stafford Borough Council to fight against growing racism in the town.

Councillor Jamie Calder, chairman of the REC, said the extra cash gave a clear message to the BNP that they are not wanted here."

The REC was awarded a grant of £5,800 in November, but councillor Calder, urged the finance and economic development sub-committee to agree to the extra funding.

BIG VOTES IN LEICESTERSHIRE

BNP score doubled since General Election

THE BRITISH National Party in Leicestershire is celebrating two excellent results achieved in last month's county council elections.

Candidates John Peacock and Jim Taylor each more than doubled the Leicestershire BNP's score in last year's General Election, gaining 2.4 per cent and 1.8 per cent respectively.

The results are all the more encouraging given that it was only possible to mount a relatively low-key campaign, due to John Peacock's commitment (as Regional Organiser) to assist the campaigns of other candidates throughout the Midlands.

Nevertheless, the candidates and their election teams were able to undertake a considerable amount of leafleting, and on Sunday 2nd May. held a successful Day of Action in both wards being contested.

With union flags flying, members of the Party distributed leaflets in Leicester Forest East, Groby and Ratby. Local residents welcomed the sight of the flag of our country being flown in their villages.

The Day of Action was a great morale-booster just before the election, and the campaign was rewarded by an excellent vote.

First BNP effort in Reigate

Last month saw the first electoral challenge by the British National Party in the county of Surrey. The party contested the Reigate East seat for the Surrey County Council, with Paul Ballard as the candidate. An extremely energetic campaign was fought, mainly by activists from the Croydon Branch, which sponsored the candidate. Surrey being a very difficult area, a large vote was not expected. In the event Paul Ballard polled 78 votes (1.8 per cent).

BULK ORDERS IMPROVE SALES

Sales of British Nationalist have continued to improve over the last couple of months, due to the welcome increase in BNP units placing bulk orders. This is a policy we want to encourage, and we are again appealing to those units who are not already doing so to place regular bulk orders for the party newspaper. It cannot be stressed strongly enough how effective paper sales are in recruiting new members to the movement. Papers can be sold on street corners, outside football grounds or door-to-door on housing estates. So — get selling!

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the Common Market
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum possible self-sufficiency in food production.
- Rejection of both the poll tax and its substitute, the new `property tax', and a return to the old rates system, though with fairer rebates allowing for differences in income and in the numbers occupying properties.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of `trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO, closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain, the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, the termination of the Anglo-Irish Agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- Repeal of the laws permitting homosexuality and abortion (except where the latter is the result of rape or necessary on medical grounds), the wiping out of AIDS and a return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
